Text One: (25 points)

The King Hussein Cancer Center (KHCC) is Jordan's only comprehensive cancer treatment centre. It treats both adult and paediatric patients. As the population of the country increases, more and more families will rely on the hospital for cancer treatment. Patients come not only from Jordan but also from other countries in the region, as they are attracted by its excellent reputation, lower costs, and cultural and language similarities.

In order to cope with the increase in demand for treatment, the KHCC has begun an expansion programme which will include different stages. The hospital will have more than doubled its capacity; increasing space for new cancer cases from 3,500 per year to 9,000. By then, they will have added 182 extra beds. New adult and paediatric wards will have opened. Additionally, they will have built a special ten-floor outpatients' building, with an education centre.

Many cancer patients live far away from the KHCC, and the journey to and from the hospital is often difficult. For this reason, there are plans to extend cancer care facilities to other parts of Jordan.

Our country has a high standard of education. This is mainly due to the fact that the government considers education a necessity. All schools, from kindergarten to secondary, are the responsibility of the Ministry of Education (MOE). Pre-school and kindergarten education is optional, followed by ten years of free, compulsory education and two years of secondary education. For higher education, students enter university, either for academic or vocational courses.

Jordanian universities have an excellent reputation among the regional ones. Students can attend a public university or a private university. A large number of Jordanian students choose to study at these institutions, as well as foreign students from all over the world.

These are undergraduates studying for a first degree, or postgraduates studying for a Master's degree, a PhD or a higher diploma. For students who wish to complete their university studies while working at the same time, it is also possible in some Jordanian universities to enrol onto online distance learning programmes. In the future, this option will become available in many other universities.
